Claim Objections

Claim 1 is objected to because of the following informalities: In claim 1, line 2, the word "Conned" doesn't make sense. The Examiner believes that the word should be ---formed---. Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-14, 18, 19 and 22-26 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Eliachar US Patent 4,794,924.

Eliachar discloses a medical device comprising a tubular member (10) having a distal end and a proximal end and extending longitudinally there between forming a lumen there through. The tubular member comprises a first portion (conical area in Fig. 6) in the proximal end and a second portion (40) comprising the distal end. The first portion is non-cylindrical (see conical shape) and wherein the connecting bend (38) forms an angle between the first portion and the second portion. The angle is between 90 to 180 degrees (see attachment).

Regarding claims 9-11, the Applicant's invention inherently teaches a patient's larynx having diameters between 6mm to 15mm.

Regarding claim 12, see element 70.

Regarding claim 13, see element 62.

Regarding claim 21, a comparison of the recited process with the prior art processes does NOT serve to resolve the issue concerning patentability of the product. In re Fessman, 489 F2d 742, 180 U.S.P.Q. 324 (CCPA 1974). Whether a product is patentable depends on whether it is known in the art or it is obvious, and is not governed by whether the process by which it is made is patentable. In re Klug, 333 F2d 905, 142 U.S.P.Q. 161 (CCPA 1964). In an ex parte case, product-by-process claims are not construed as being limited to the product formed by the specific process recited. In re Hirao et al., 535 F2d 67, 190 U.S.P.Q. 15, see footnote 3 (CCPA 1976).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 16 and 17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Eliachar US Patent 4,794,924 in view of Marten US Patent 4,795,465.

Eliachar discloses the invention substantially as claimed. However, Eliachar does not disclose a substance capable of avoiding anti-scar formation and doesn't disclose an anti-microbial agent.

Marten teaches a tracheobronchial stent comprising a stent that promote healing with minimal encouragement for the growth of scar tissues (see col. 2, lines 12-17).

Art Unit: 3738

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the Eliachar reference with the Marten reference in order to promote healing with minimal encouragement for the growth of scar tissues.

Regarding claim 17, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the Eliachar reference by adding an antiu-microbial agent to the implant in order to promote healing and reduce the growth of bacterial in the targeted area.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 15, 20 and 27-28 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.
